

Maria Mavri is Professor of Quantitative Methods in the, Department of Business Administration at University of the Aegean at Greece. She is currently Member of Board of Directors at the University of the Aegean, while from 2018-2022 was Vice Rector of Research and Life Long Learning at the same University.

She holds a first degree in Mathematics from the University of Athens, a MSc degree in Decision Sciences from Athens University of Business & Economics and a PhD in Operational Research from the same University.

Her scientific interests apply in the field of 3D Printing, Operational Research, Linear and non-linear Programming.

She has presented her research work in international conferences and she has published research papers in scientific journals such as 3D Printing and Additive Manufacturing, Omega, Journal of Science and Technology Policy Management, International Transactions in Operational Research, Knowledge and Process Management, International Journal of Consumer Studies.

She is project coordinator at several projects, related on the role of 3D printing funded by European Commission

Since 2022 she is member of the Regional Board of Research and Innovation of North Aegean, She had also worked as Scientific Advisor at National Strategic Reference Framework 2007-2013, and as Project manager in Greek Information Society Observatory in projects which are funded from the operational program "Information Society" and "Digital Convergence".